

Travenboo Privacy Policy

We believe that your personal data is private and we do not collect, mine, or distribute any unnecessary data. Our product(s) are provided as standalone recreational games/apps and we do not have any need for your personal information, images, videos, documents, phone statistics, call logs, etc. Our product(s) only operate within the bounds that is required to provide you the content you are requesting. If at any point we need elevated permissions then the application will specifically request it.

We DO NOT collect:

- We do not collect personal data about you
- We do not collect personal media stored on your phone
- We do not collect credit card or payment method details

We DO provide:

- The ability to purchase products through Google's In-App purchasing methods (they handle the payment details).
- We hate ads and our products will never contain third-party in-app advertising
- We may collect device statistics for the purpose of checking compatibility with various devices
- We may collect error reporting data for our application

In summary, we do not want any of your personal data. We simply strive to provide you the most fun games in a hassle-free manner. If you have any other questions, feel free to contact us by email: info@travenboo.com

Thank you.